Occupied as the public mind has been for some time past with election matters, but little attention has been paid to those subjects which, under other circumstances, would command a full share of public interest. Among them is the great international arbitration now being held at Geneva for the adjustment of existing matters in dispute between Great Britain and the United States The whole Empire of Great Britain is interested in this great trial which is SEA WATER BATH HOUSE, BRITISH now pending, not on the ground of the pecuniary considerations involved, but on the higher ground that by the verdict of the arbitrators, whatever that might be, a peaceful solution of questions will be arrived at that could only otherwise have been settled by a resort to arms, involv ing immense destruction to property, loss of life, and seriously crippling the ener-gies and resources of both nations. The Dominion of Canada, even more than England herself, has cause for thankful ness that the su jects of difference be to find a peaceful and satisfactory solusion, for the reason that had they had recourse to violent means to obtain satistion for real or fancied grievances, Canadian soil would have constituted the battle-ground on which those issues would have been tought out, and it would have fallen to the lot of the Canadian people to bear not only their full share of all the fighting to be done, but to witness the inevitable devastation of the r country as the result of a quarrel they had no hand in creating. The fragmentary accounts which come to hand every day or two from Geneva indicate the early completion of the labors of the Court of Arbitration, and it will certainly not be long now before their verdict will be made known. We care very little what that verdict may be-we believe it will be a fair and impartial one, and entertain not a doubt that both paities to the cause will yield a hearty submission to the judgment of the Court when they make amusing to read the despatches to the American papers and their comments on those despatches as they appear from day to day. If they are to be believed, everything is progressing even more favorably than the most ultra American could wish. Not only will their direct direct ones are likely to receive the most favorable consideration of the Court. Yesterday we were told that "the proceedings before the tribunal of arbitration progress favorably to this Government, but advices are silent as to the probable amount of money awarded." We have the utmost respect for the wisdom of the Court, for the reason that its first act was to close its doors against the meddlesome interference of newsonper reporters and the prying curiosity of that useful but sometimes over-officious class of persons. Had they been perport the proceedings, the chances are the other, and probably by both, with a view to brieging outside pressure to bear upon their deliberations and influence their judgment, as to materially change sion now to be arrived at, if not the decision now to be arrived at, if not to lead to the breaking up of the Court before coming to any conclusion at all As it is, neither party can tell how matters are really tending. Uncle Sam believes that so far as he is concerned, everything is going along lovely. According to his idea, John Bull is just as good as condemned, and that he will have to pay every dollar of compensation demanded for losses anatomed by tion demanded for losses sustained by Alabama depredations is looked upon as a foregone conclusion. On the other hand John Bull takes the matter with his accustomed coolness and stolidity, relying upon the justice of his cause and the wis-dom and impartiality of the arbitra ors, believing that he by right is not indebted a single dollar to the American Govern-ment on Alabama account, but ready to as follows, viz. :bow gracefully to the judgment of the Court and to pay every dime that may be awarded against him, should it amount to one dollar or to millions. It is there fore clear that the looked-for judgment of the Geneva tribunal, whatever it may be, will be a final, full, and peaceful set-tlement of all matters in dispute between the two nations; and may we not be allowed to express the hope that all past difficulties having been fairly and honorably adjusted, England and America may ever after be firm friends and faithful allies, and that for all time to come the only contests in which they may ever be engaged as rivals may be such as tend to promote their respective interests, the extension of their commerce, the diffusion of knowledge, the welfare and happiness of their subjects, the blessings of peace to all mankind, and the ushering in of that happy period when nation shall no more rise up sgainst nation, but having beaten their swords into plowshares shall learn war no more.

Mr. Beaven said he sincerely thanked the electors for the manner, in which they had received him. In every contest there must be some one defeated, and he was the one voted to stay at home. He was prepared to do his duty in the local House, as heretofore, and he felt proud of the first position in which they, the electors, had placed him in that local House. [Hear.] He trusted that the opposition he had given to the elected candidates on this occasion, would stimulate them to do their duty in juture; and if they ready to day; to be had at them to do their duty in tuture ; and if they attended to that duty, he would be one of the first to acknowledge it. He hoped they would not again be opposed for having neglected to attend the that duty. Had the electors looked into the debates in the House of Commons, they would have seen that many important matters had come up. He instance the question of the New Brunswick School Set. Certain parties tried to interfere with matters pertaining to the Provincial Government. In the United States the system is reversed; in many of the States there is more power in the Legislatures than in the General Government. In Canada the supreme Brown, who is in jail on suspicion of being the murderer of John Johnston at Chemainus on the 13th of March last, is the man who received a sum of most and the suprement for contract that the principle should be guarded; if not, it was one of those things which would some day break up our Government.
